Standard yarn weight info from the Craft Yarn Council.

Feel free to experiment and adjust these cast on numbers to suit your own preferences and remember that knit hats are wonderfully versatile in their sizing! They are often stretchier than crochet and can often be a "one size fits most" or a "grow with me" type of sizing.

Baby head sizes vary greatly in the first year of life. Most patterns allow for plenty of stretch but if you're concerned, do a Google search and remember to include preemie head sizes if applicable.

Do I Have Enough Yarn for Another Row?

No more “Yarn Chicken” for Knit, Crochet or Circular Machine Knitting

Craft	Approximate Measurements Per Row
-------	----------------------------------

Knitting	Wrap yarn around needle <# of stitches> + a little extra
----------	--

Single Crochet	In the Round: wrap yarn around project 7 times Flat: 7x the length of your row
Half Double Crochet	In the Round: wrap yarn around project 10 times Flat: 10x the length of your row
Double Crochet	In the Round: wrap yarn around project 15 times Flat: 15x the length of your row

46 Needle Machine (Addi King Size)	54 inches	137 cm	1.5 yards	1.4 meters
40 Needle Machine (Mid-size Machine)	43 inches	109 cm	1.2 yards	1.2 meters
22 Needle Machine (Addi Professional)	32 inches	81 cm	7/8 yard	.8 meters

- Note 1: These measurements will vary a bit depending on the yarn used and the tension applied. I also allowed for “a little extra” for joining and sewing in ends.
- Note 2: If you’re planning a scrap project, you can get more exact measurements by putting the scrap on the machine one at a time and making a note of how many rows it produces BEFORE beginning your project.
